

Information Directories Management Map of The University of Queensland

Population Data Source: Walker Feng and Heyang Li.

This is a map illustrating the population distribution around the Great Court of the University of Queensland (UQ).

Additionally, the map indicates the positions of information directories within UQ.

Based on the demographic data collected from these surveyed regions, the red dot marks the best location for a new information directory, strategically positioned near the boundary of two distinct areas.

One area, situated adjacent to the Great Court and encompassing an art museum, ranks second highest in population density as per the survey findings.

The other area is in proximity to Campbell Place and the aforementioned region, characterized by a sizable population due to their interconnected nature.
